Breaking Through

BACK ALREADY?

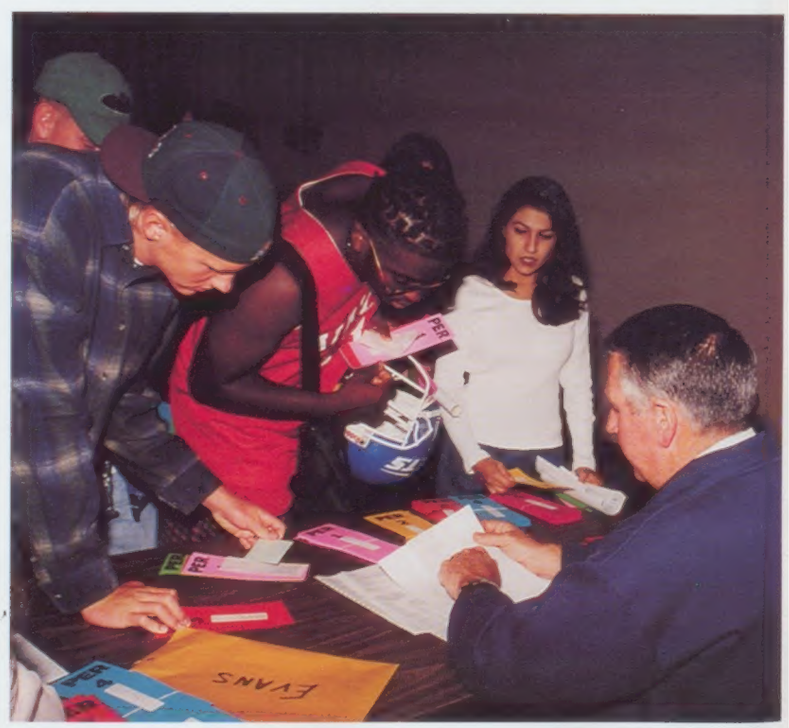
A summer that lasts forever, that would be the wish of probably every student in the history of the schooling. But alas, all things must come to an end, and so must that institution which all students everywhere hold so sacred, the summer vacation.

When students return to classes in the fall there is already a sense of doom that permeates the air. With the sobering thoughts of another year hanging over them, the students will trudge back to school on the specified day to whatever fate lies before them. But what is it that they find, but a mill-in, chaulk-full of all the same confusions and pit-falls that any decent school year will provide.

The first day of school is traditionally a day of breaking old habits and creating new ones. Waking up at ten- thirty everyday for example is one of the treasured activities which one must give up in the face of school. It's a hard life!

However, the thought of returning to friends and teachers that one has not seen or talked to or laughed with all summer and maybe even the hopes of an education or not make it all worth while; and in the end, the return to school is probably as anticipated as the beginning of summer because for one, the first day of school is often more exciting and enjoyable than the first day of summer.

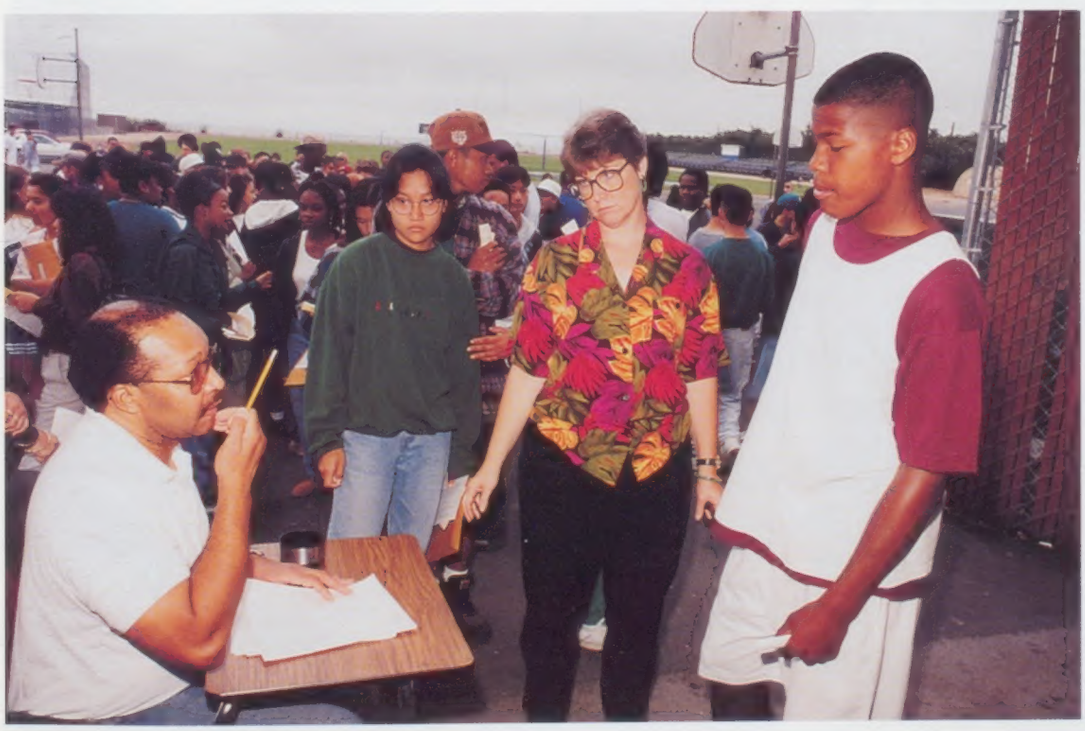
Everyone must be envious of the fine positions in line that Jack Tran and Michael Thomas have landed for themselves. Students had to be early to rise if they wanted prime spots in line because admission was based on first come first serve.



Almost finished! Junior Renee Johnston passes through the final hurdles of a long morning of paper work shuffling. Soon she will have her shedule finalized.

Seniors Chris Pivonka, Eric Lyons, and Shogofa Zahid check into Mr. Evans class. Despite the confusing paperwork, everybody seemed to work out their schedule.

Senior Luchresha Richards makes the most of her long wait in line as she jokes withher friends Cherie Fountaine and Betrice Jones.



The ever- helpful Theresa Tenorio, who runs Encinal's banking office, attempts to help junior Ennis Washington through the tedious mill-in process.

Band member Derrick Lyons anticipates his turn to play while in back of him David Wyner, Scott Wong, and Michael Gbologah have their hands full.

Seniors Kim Harmon and Shawn Moreland take time out of their pasta feeding to discuss the latest bit of trivia.

Decorating for the pasta feed was no small under taking as Courtney Flood will atest to. The annual event helped the seniors make some much needed money.

What is worse than standing in line? Standing in line to go to school; no doubt that is what these juniors are thinking.

Coach Grant has been a coach on the Encinal football team for many years now. Here he shares his experience with JV player Maurice Lyles.

The determination is evident in the eyes of Charles "the moose" Scanlon in this game against league rival Piedmont. This year was Charles' fourth season on the polo team.

We've got spirit! Or so says Lisa Gurman, Devon Chacones, and Brooke Allen. The EHS cheerleaders have cheered unceasingly for the jet football team.

Over the summer the senior class had their picures taken for their portraits. Here, Richard Ho poses for the camera. Say Cheese!

Striving for the extra yard is what senior Kariem Mc Farlin does best. Kariem has followed up his All- League performance of last season with yet another impressive season.

En Vouge at Encinal? No, these divas are seniors Ashanti Lovelace, Tamika Bennett, Cherie Fountaine, and Chudney Traylor. This act was part of the senior's homecoming skit which took first place

Senior Ryan Haslam has hefty responsibilities as the EHS band's drum major. In this position the bandmembers must key off of Ryan in order to keep the impeccable timing that has made our band so successful.

SENIORS

CLASS OF 1995

SENIORITIS

AND PROUD OF IT

In the fall of 1991 school began at Encinal as it had every year; with a few new faces. The freshman class began to learn the ways of high school which was like nothing they had ever experienced. A few were excited at this strange new world filled with new people; many were simply bewildered by the change to the liberal atmosphere at Encinal.

By their second year there was definatly a feeling of unity within the class. An entire year had bred new friendships and the fear of the change to high school life was replaced by the confidence the of being accepted by their peers. Students began to become more involved with clubs, sports, and student government, all of which make high school memorable.

The Juniors brought the challanges of an increased work load. The class delt with it in turn though, for they would not be held from their goals of continued successs and graduation. The results of juniors' labors earned them a first place finish in the homecoming competition and the respect of the other classes. At last they were upper classmen.

This is the first in four years that the members of the class of '95 ruled their school. Experienced and confident, the seniors entered this year with an agenda. Priority one- have a fun and enjoyable year from homecoming to prom.

Although they had no one to look up to, the seniors met with great success. The first activity of the year, the pasta feed, brought much needed money into the senior's account. Homecoming was won for the second year in a row by the class of 1995. The money earned from these and other fund-raisers like the senior car-wash and garage sale is going toward having a nice prom and enjoyable acitvities like the senior picnic and banquet.

For four years now the class of 1995 has grown together, learned together, and in June, they will graduate together. They have earned the right to call themselves seniors and should be proud of their accomplishments. When this class graduates, the school will be losing more than just another group of kids. Encinal High will never again be the same as it was when the class of 1995 ruled its halls.

Watch out for these buffed football players. Heather Bortisser, Judalon Winstead, and Gail Ahoto perform their starring roles in yet another scene from the award winning senior skit.

Homecoming 1994

Spirited freshmen took to the halls in this year's hall decorating competition. Joy Gerner and Tereasa Chavez are responsible for the cheering crowd, how colorful.

At least no one can say that the freshmen can't dance. Rowena Magno, Latesha Brooks, Mariedel Pineda, Miesha Singleton, and Greg Edwards know what to do. Freak!

Alien invasion or juior class skit, perhaps we will never know. One thing is for sure though, nobody has seen Ben Thorton, Alexeev Roland, James Hayes, or Juan Milo around lately.

Why did the senior class prevail in the Homecoming skit competition? Superior acting ability as senior Keesha Jetton so eloquently demonstrates.

The Jet football team rolls to a decisive victory over the Salesian Chieftains. It was the Finemal defense that ruled the game by stoping runs like this.

Dorky, I mean Sid Florendo, has just killed the wicked witch as the masses of munchkins look on. This year's class of '97 skit was good for second place.

In a repeat of last year's junior prince and princess finish, Chad Jones and Jovy Burgos earn their dance by being named the 1995 Homecomming king and queen.

The top freshman vote getters were Maridel Pineda and Alister Onia They were the first price and princess for the class of 1998.

The prince and princess for the class of 1997 were sophomores Dana Natac and Barry Ford.

This years Junior class prince and pricess were Anissa Ols and James Rollins.

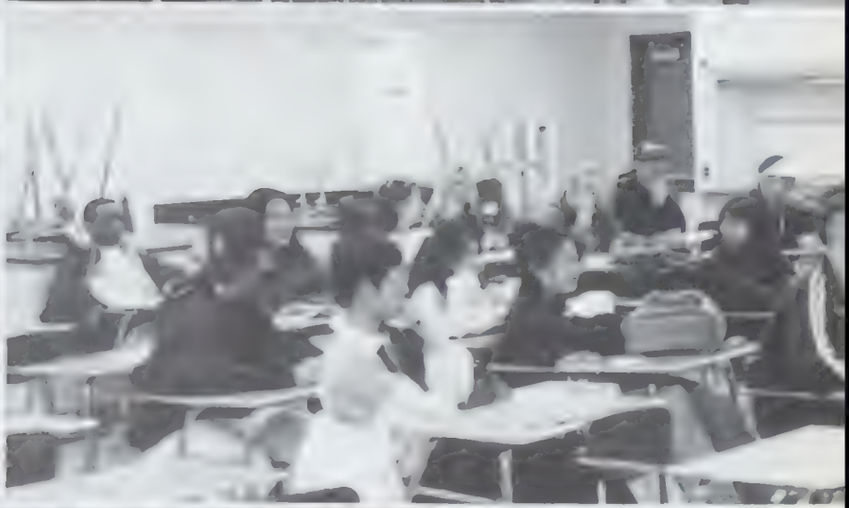
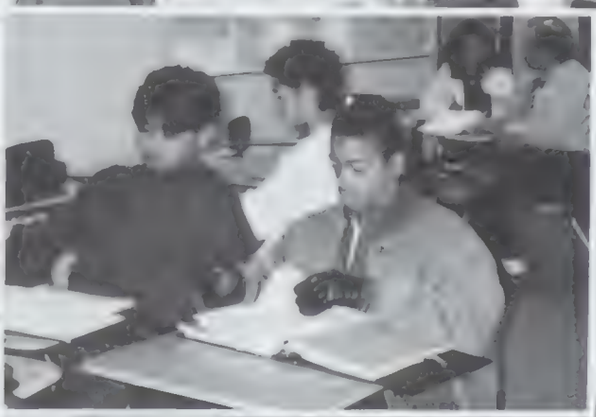
ACADEMICS





Journey Along

Reading, Writing And Tests!

English is a subject in which you learn to expand your vocabulary and use your creativeness. As you progress the literature you read becomes more difficult than before. Your English teacher should had expanded your mind and created situations in which you will have learned different things. If you enjoyed English, than you could join Public Speaking which is taught by Mr. Robinson. In this class you are often in front of the class expressing your views on different subjects.

Freshmen students read "Of Mice and Men", "Miracle Worker", and the romance classic "Romeo and Juliet". The Sophomore agenda included such works as "Julius Caesar" and "All Quiet on the Western Front."

For the juniors, who have the chance to take SAT test, enjoyed such novels as "The Great Gatsby", the Shakespearian play "Othello", and "The Crucible". And finally the 1995 Seniors have read from titles such as "Frankenstein", "The Elephant Man", and "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest".

In the four years of English you will be enriched with different types of teachers from the English Department who will help you develop reading, writing, and vocabulary skills which will help you take the SAT tests for college entrance.

Jennifer Gonzalez and Randy Wurr read their books This year freshmen have read such books as "Romeo and Juliet" and "Of Mice and Men"

Demarias Zeleke is carefully listening to Mrs. Brooks' remarks about her essay.

Kim Sablan, Darlene Stevenson, and Andre Rudledge listen to Mrs. Davis Martin while Ann Torio begins to plan her week end.

Earl Rivard sings a song while Evan Richards helps him out by playing the guitar.

Mr. Preminger has no problem as Emma Grace Soma Ada Cheung, Carla Carreon, and Ana Florian finish their reading assignment before the bell rings.

What do you think of the freshmen this year?

"Freshmen this year have more vitality and pizzazz than almost any group in the past."-Mr. Haber.

Did you enjoy your year with your English class?

"Yes, I had a terrific year this year specially with my 4th period class who were outstanding."-Mrs. Davis-Martin.

Angela Acosta concentrates on her reading while sitting in a comfortable position in her chair

Joebe Melangco, James Hayes, Wing Leung, and Gabriel Johnson get ready to turn in their homework while Jason Geribaldi thinks about the football game that was played that day

Jovy Burgos, Jovita Cacho, and Chris Campbell are absorbing as much of Mr. Wainwright's lecture as possible.

Hanalei Drapiza, Lakisha Clifton and Natalie Cunial enjoy Alan Duque's interpretive reading

Tina Lee, Sheri Seto and Wing Leung practice their skit for Mr. Lewis's junior class

Historical Experience

Jets Bring The Past To Light

It is said that history repeats itself. In that case, what could be better to teach the future of the world than the history of the world? Encinal's requirement of three units of social science including World History, U.S. History, Government, and Economics assures that each student will leave Encinal with a taste of how the world was and how it could be.

With the History Family in its third year of existence and the addition of new instructors the Encinal history program has been well prepared to deal with the increased enrollment and larger class size in the 94-95 school year. With continued success, Encinal's students will ready for the future through a fresh look at the past.

Ryan Balolong uses his weaving skills he learned in history class to create an exact replica of ancient basketry work.

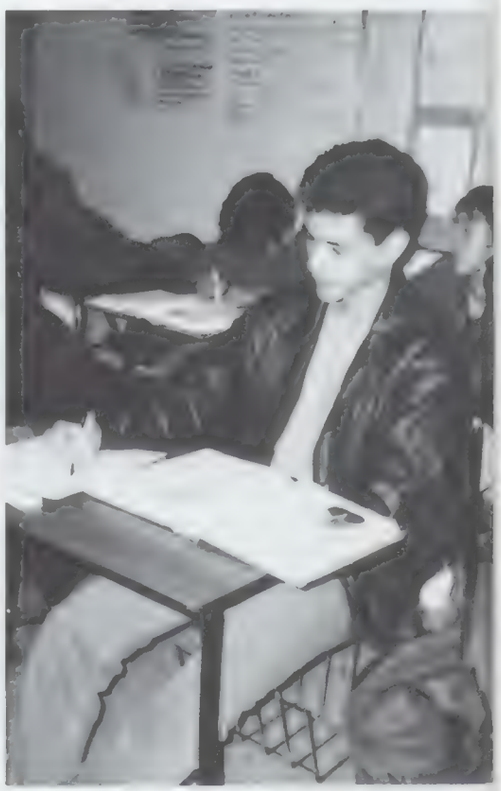
Connie Pricer, Michelle Beltrajar, Edwin Jordon, and Kiunda Wright off their World History project on Venezuela. What teacher wouldn't give these angels an "A."



Shawn Fitzpatrick day dreams about a tropical island and warm sun while his teacher day dreams about him doing his work.

Who is your favorite historical figure?

"Thomas Jefferson"
-Mrs. Linda Nelson

"Neil Armstrong"
-Mr. Kevin Beal

"Elizabeth I"
-Mrs. Linda Kingston

"Abraham Lincoln"
-Mr. Marin Rodriguez

Judy, Kay, and Mimi Chow, no relations, put their brain power to good use, polishing up on some last minute studying before their test

Seniors Camellia Millett-Lau and Stephanie May diligently study their economics. Jaclyn Irvine, who already finished her work takes a break.

Kelly Stanton and Ben Thorton pay close attention to their teacher, Mrs. Nelson. The students who pay attention the most, they know, will inevitable get the most out of their high school years.

1 Teacher + 30 Rowdy Students=

Mathematical Madness!!!!!

EHS students were offered a variety of mathematical courses. Although IMP math courses were mandatory for Freshmen and Sophomores, it was optional for Juniors and Seniors giving them a chance to further their knowledge. Algebra II and Math Analysis were the highest levels of the many mathematical course options. Math labs and Math Prep courses were offered for the Juniors and Seniors, also.

The Business Academy offered a different kind of math. Business Math is new to the Encinal math curriculum and is still popular, though it has only a two year running time. It seems to work out fairly well for the numerous Academy students. Students studied hard to make the grade but, of course, there are always the dreamers. Math makes you think, when you think you begin to drift, and once again ... MATHEMATICAL MADNESS!!!!!!!

Ania Lukaszewicz, Lauren Blickle, and Rickey Medders study hard for their exams. Well, at least that's what they want the notorious Ms. "J" to think. Nice try guys.

Lorelei Bressler and Frank Awayan approach their presentation with light hearts and calm nerves. They managed to stay relaxed throughout the entire dramatic experience.

Andre Lewis relaxes after a hard day's thinking. He is imagining that he is actually able to solve the equation that had racked his brain just moments before . KEEP DREAMING!!!

Quinn Elder and Robert Hamilton work intently to try and finish their work before the bell rings. It's hard to keep on working when it's time to go home, isn't it guys?

Wilord Elauria smirks as the answer to the problem before him pops into his mind. "Easy as pie," he says quietly to himself.

Krista Geddes chews on her nails as she wonders what Mr. Juarez will think of her project's theme. Don't worry, Krista, I'm sure he'll pass you.

Mrs. Egbert works diligently in an attempt to help out this Freshman. Josh Heilig pays close attention as his favorite teacher explains the equation.

What would you do to make math class more fun?

"I'd get rid of the teachers and the homework, kick back, and goof off the whole period."
-Edna Ahferom

"NO IMP!!!!"
-Teresa Titus

"More fun group activities."
-Shirene Bell

"To make math class more fun? I just wouldn't go.
-Mike Hibbs

"I would get rid of IMP. Actually I'd get rid of all math. Hey, it's just a thought."
-Hasan Lengle

"I would change my math teacher."
-Jason Gerabaldi

"I'd get rid of IMP and all math books."
-Dee George

These three work hard, but kick back until they have to rush. Mary Vigil, Jesus Valdez and Bruce Lancaster were able to finish their work before the bell rang and made it home in time for dinner.

Clarinda Lundas and Abigail Tan stare at each other's papers in hope of acquiring a mutual understanding of the homework.

Yahn Dang and Sandy Wong watch in amazement as Mr. "Rebs" lectures the class about something of classwide interest. They must have a really great teacher.

Exploring Nature

Students Explore Parts Of Nature

Two sciences, one physical and one laboratory are required for all Encinal students for graduation. Classes range from Physiology to Physics.

Aquatic life forms studied in their natural habitat were found in Marine Biology. Field trips to the beach and peering under rocks were some of the activities enjoyed by classes taught by Mr. Jon Mederios and Ms. Beth Napier.

Nearly 60 students took Chemistry with Mr. Alan Nelson and concentrated on the study of matter, its structure, and properties. With this knowledge they were able to put together molecular and ionic equations.

Some 25 students struggled through what they called their most challenging class: Physics. Students pondered over vectors, gravity, and projection motile.

In Physiology students learned how the skeletal and muscle systems work with Mr. Brian Wilson. Mr. Roger Wilpitz used his knowledge to teach some twenty people interesting facts in AP Biology. Integrated Science Courses were taught by many teachers to six different families of Sophomores and Freshmen.

Seniors Kariem McFarlin and Hung Tieu pay close attention to a lecture on gravity in their Physics class

Freshmen Chris Flower, Claude Custard and Carrie Austin listen to Mr. Wilson describe some of the activities that they will participate in.

Sophomores Ragrel Kennedy and Lance Mato follow the lab directions to make sure that their experiment will work.

Ms. Napier checks the work of Nikyshia Masters while Lisa Mosqueriola waits for her turn.

Lien Dinh measures the weight of the rubber piece while Kelly Urich and Brandon Collins look on in Chemistry.

Did You Know?

Juniors Jesse Avitia waits for Juan Milo to tell him the measurement during a field trip in Marine Biology.

Freshman Faye Kelley wonders what piece is missing to make the roller coaster work

Renee Cotten and Josh Talltree wonder what will happen if they add chlorine to sodium in their I.S.C. class

Brandon Blizard wonders when Mr. Nelson will hand over the supplies he needs to start his lab

Foreign Tongues

Mastering The Art Of Language

Bonjour! Hola! Students at Encinal High School are taking an advantage of the opportunity to expand their horizons in the language department.

In class students strive to speak fluently in French and Spanish. This prepares students for college majors and jobs with bilingual experience required. EHS students just don't learn how to speak the language, they also participate in culture and art. Many students in Monsieur Fong's class experience many types of costumes and food through foreign films, slides and early French breakfast.

Besides French Encinal provides a big Spanish department with Senora Sanchez, Senora Rubin and Senor Rivard heading up the job to teach first through fourth year students about cultural events and holidays. Spanish teachers talk about their past experience in Spanish speaking countries and provide an idea of life and culture in another land.

No matter which foreign language class students took, they were offered a diversity of cultural experience. Also they had an chance to learn a new language.

Marcus Richard studies hard during finals week in hopes to get a good grade for the semester

Senora Sanchez has a chance to finally catch up on correcting mid terms for her Spanish classes.

Ginger Wilson listens attentively to Senor Rivard is Spanish lesson. As she pay no attention to the camera.

Why have you taken an interest in the art of foreign language?

Well I already knew two languages so what's one more. Plus I always thought that French was a beautiful language.

-Magdalena Strepniewski-

The more languages you can speak, the greater advantage you have in this world.

-Elaine Kwong-

I wanted to see if was is hard to learn another language and to learn more about its country, religion, culture and where the language came from.

-Hazel Limcolioc-

Yes indeed it's story book time! Acacia Tally and Jessica Burtenshaw share a book to read in front of class as they sit on a nice and cozy heater on a cold and rainy day in Monsieur Fong's French three class.

The girls in the corner are back in Monsieur Fong's French class, Mimi Chow, Sandy Wong, Hazel Limcolioc and Anh Dang looks at notes as French lesson begin.

Bayani Flores packs up to go home as Mike Chung weeps about his poorly written chapter test in their sixth period Spanish class. Mike later sees Mrs. Sanchez after school about what he has done wrong on his test.

Kay Chow counts up her sellos as Charlie Aquino anxiously takes out his Spanish materials for an intense teaching from Mrs. Sanchez. Other students sit around chit chatting to each other.

Let's Get Physical

Jets Sweat For An "A"

Another physical year of P.E. for the underclassmen. There is a requirement of two years of P.E. for all students before they are able to graduate. Not a bad deal most students would say. Students like the idea of playing sports during school and receiving credit for it.

Coaches Dave Johns, Jim Saunders, Mark Wainwright, and Mrs. Debbie Budd were this year's P.E. instructors. There were a variety of activities played in this year's P.E. course. The activities included basketball, volleyball, tennis, and many others. Activities were rotated throughout the school year so teachers had to make the best of either the swimming pool, the gym, the tennis courts, and the football and baseball fields.

When students were asked which activity was most enjoyed, most of their responses were basketball. Football and volleyball were big favorites too. Swimming was probably the only disliked activity in P.E.

Kevin Kelly displays good form as he returns a serve for a point.

P.E. can be difficult for teachers too as Mrs. Debbie Budd tries to get a volleyball game going in one of her P.E. classes.

Christian Serna and Jack Tran demonstrate their leaping abilities and enthusiasm for basketball as they finish dunking a couple of basketballs.

A P.E. class waits for role-call, warm ups, and tennis equipment to be properly distributed before they are able to play tennis.

Kiunda Wright shows off her dribbling skills as she heads towards the basket. Edna Ahferon and Deanna Taylor try to chase her down.

Tennis can be a very patient game as Tony Nguyen and Huy Le wait for their opponents to get ready to receive a serve.

Danny Neal looks down court to see whether he should pass or drive to the hoop

Harold Ambrose uses his cross-dribble to attempt to drive to the basket while being defended by Mike Yabut

Why do you think P.E. is a required course?

"Because teachers want to torture their students with extreme physical exertion."

-Richard Thompson-

"Because it keeps you healthy."

-Grade Somo-

"I'd rather have P.E. than R.O.T.C."

-Sid Florendo-

What part of P.E. was most enjoyed this year?

"When we played flag football."

-Alastair Onia-

"Baseball it's my favorite sport."

-Lucas Pozos-

"Football, because it's violent."

-Nick Henneman-

What sport or activity should be included to make P.E. more enjoyable?

"A free day to sit in the gym all period long and talk with our buddies."

-Dana Jarvis-

"All the good sports are already taken."

-William Wong-

Jet Battalion

Honor Through Teamwork

The year started out well with the Jets coming out victorious at the Skyline Drill Down where they won four out of five trophies. The Battalion attended many competitions and made many public appearances throughout the year including the Fourth of July Parade.

The battalion, who are always considered for Honor Unit or Honor Unit with Distinction awards, sent representatives from the Drill Team and Color Guard to UCLA, for the Annual NROTC competition, where they earned top five in every event that they entered.

In February the Jets, along with Skyline High School's battalion threw their annual Military Ball. It was held at the Officer's Club on an Oakland Base. Much work from both schools was necessary to make the event a success.

At the end of the year, the battalion had their annual Comp Nite, which is a competition between all of Encinal's companies. The Comp Nite activities consisted of competitions in rifle drilling, Color guard and drill team performances, for which medals were awarded.

Overall, the Jet Battalion had a good year. They participated in various activities and won many awards which went to prove that the Jets had set their sights on the right target. TEAMWORK was Encinal's theme, and a year of success was the result. Hats off to the Jet Battalion!

Daniel Pitts, Mark Cardenas and Anthony Chu report in with the rest of the platoon, commanded by Matt Adelberg, at the Annual Veteran's Day Parade. The 1994 parade was held in Hayward.

Jamelle Guyton-Wills and Jasmine Walker carry the Encinal High School Banner to lead the Jet battalion into the Veteran's Day Parade. Jamelle and Jasmine also performed well at the Skyline Drill Down.

Berna Griffith, Mary Grace Guitierrez, Janelle Williams, Maile Campbell, and Erica Bendas do a Colors Salute in front of the judging stand as Williams reports in.

Ronald LeGaux and Shirene Bell inspect Linda Saefong's Class A uniform. The inspection was based on 10 possible points. Both Ronald and Shirene were on the JROTC Drill Team and went to UCLA for the competition.

Martin Arcilla pulls off fancy spins and reports in to the judging stand at the Veteran's Day Parade, while the rest of the Drill Team does a Reverse Queen Anne's Salute. The Jet Battalion didn't place in the parade put did very well and received a huge applause.

What do you think is different between JROTC and any other class?

JROTC teachers you leadership and things you can use in the future and in the real world. Things like communication skills, Map Reading, First Aid, Discipline, and TEAMWORK!

-Shirene Bell-

JROCT has more discipline. They also make you learn a little bit more than other teachers. You also learn teamwork!

-Maile Campbell-

The kids get to lead each other and you get more involved with one another.

-Ginnie Rivera-

Besides Student Government, JROTC teaches you leadership. It also teaches you Leadership Traits and it has a strong Military background. If you decide to go into the Military, you can go in two ranks higher if you complete four years of JROTC. You can also get a lot of scholarships.

-Jeremy Quinones-

JROTC is my inspiration, it motivates me to go for my goal towards the future. In class alone, you're able to know each other, you're closer to them than you are outside of class. It also helped me build up leadership, confidence, and I'm able to work cooperatively, as a team. It also gave me a sense of how life is and how it's competitive. Above all, JROTC is great!!!

-Martin Arcilla-

It's strict, but you get to have fun at the same time!

-Agnes Chu-

JROTC teaches everyone about teamwork and leadership. We have extra activities like raising the flag in the morning, marching in parades, going to competition, and shooting rifles. I think our ROTC unit is respected among our school and our community. You don't "enjoy" every class you are in, in fact, you might want to forget some of them; but ROTC is actually a great learning experience.

-Anthony Chu-

It's an easy A!

-Erica Bendas-

You get to boss fools around!

Artistic Artists

Painting, Sketching, Sculpturing

Christian Serna, Dustin Canalin, Nick Strang and Nathan Kahrs perform their art skills on a piece of paper. Chris and Dustin where the most recognized art students at EHS this year.

This academic year the art department has been improved by the great mind of Mrs. Stern. She created a new academy called the Arts and Humanity Academy. In this academy there are no more than 30 students and mostly all the basic classes like English and government have an art and humanities emphasis. The academy has gone on different field trips which involve arts like music, painting, sculpturing. By the end of the year the students had to perform a final project related with art. The students had to spend 100 hours on this project.

This year was an exciting year in the art department. Everyone enjoyed all the fun activities that the teachers had out for them. Mr. Ruark taught the ceramic class how to make sculptures out of clay. Mr. Haber had only one period of art this year and taught students the basic rules in art. Last but not least in Mrs. Stern's art 1,2,3,4 classes she taught kids about artists of the past and how to make an art portfolio.

Mrs. Stern hesitates and thinks what grade is she going to give to the students performance for their art work. Mrs. Stern was the originator for the Art and Humanity Academy.

Jessabelle Labampa, Mike Sapinoso, and Teresa Chaves sculpture the human body out of ordinary ceramic clay.

Juan Apodaca, Christian Marchello, and Andy Thomas create an old Indian mask out of balloons, newspapers and paper maché.

Teacher Quotes

What was so different about the students this year?

"I had a variety of different ethnic groups which showed a lot of talent".-Mr. Robert Ruark.

"The students were very progressive even though I had only one period of art."-Mr. Warren Haber

"The students were more disciplined this year. I had a terrific and great time teaching art this year".-Mrs. Rachel Stern.

Jennifer Bisbiglia and Rebecca Schultz created a boggie monster out of newspaper and glue in Art 1 for Mr. Haber

Oscar Lara checks how many inches he needs to complete his thermometer. The thermometer was used to chart how many yearbooks the staff sold

Debbie Hachtel reads from her essay of a historical artist she researched. She also displays her exciting and creative art piece

Peter Major and Beki Duarte sculpture carefully San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge in ceramics taught by Mr. Ruark

Carrie Powell, Erik Knapp, and Stephanie Reed sketch out their fantasy dream houses. These students were awarded as creative artists of the class by Mrs. Stern

Music To Our Ears

Jet Band Follows The Beat

This year Encinal High's music program consisted of approximately 150 students in a Marching Band, a choir, the Jazz Band. The Marching Band is just not enough for teacher Arman Phelps. Mr. Phelps enjoys working with this students from beginners to advanced. His bands performed in many school activities including football games, basketball games, assemblies, etc.

In addition to all their school related performances the Encinal Band participated in many competitions. Both Marching Band and Flag Team finished no lower than Fourth on any competition.

Tiana Jordan, Wahetta Johnson, Micheal Ary and Elvin Gee are playing strong to make up a Jammin Sax Section.

Derrik Lyons watches the Drum Major carefully to keep the rhythm.

The marching band entertains the crowd with a tune from their half time show at the Willie Stargell Field.

The Flag Girls march in sync keeping as straight a row as possible during a halftime show at a home football game.

The snare drummers Derrick Lyons and Rodel Binaoro are checkin' out Alexeev Roland who is keeping the beat on his bass drum.

The concert band trombone section keeps the Brass section together during a performance in the school gym.

The popular saxophone section lookin' good in their performance attire.

The marching band pauses during their half-time field show to play for the audience

On The Job

Everybody's Working Toward The Future

This year, the Business and Academy courses covered Drafting, Computers, Keyboarding, Marketing, and Computer Science. These Business and Academy classes prepared young students for jobs in their futures. For example in Drafting course, Mr. Eugene Ford teaches students about architecture and making plans for buildings. The field of Computers is growing as we move closer to the year 2000 and students learn the basics of technology. There are a lot of businesses and jobs out in the real world that relate to these certain courses. Hopefully, some of these students will use their business knowledge in the future.

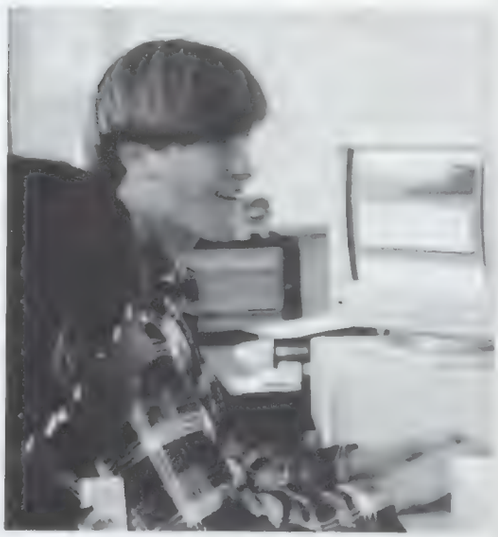
This year there were two new elective classes called Computer Science and Computer Literacy taught by Mr. Paul Juarez and Mr. Jerry Ludy. If both teachers did a successful job of teaching their computer classes, they will be continued on to next year's programs.

Mr. Juarez has also taught freshman and sophomore IMP math and Mr. Ludy has taught an zero period elective class of Drivers Ed.

John Mak shares his book with Mike Thomas in computer science to explain to Mike what the assignment was. They were supposed to find a way to make all the letters of the alphabet on logo.

Alex Pugeda and Gail Ly work on building plans for drafting class. They also draw landscapes and three dimensional models.

Philip Goodrich puts on a kool aid smile as he types away anxiously in his 5th period computer class.



Hung Tieu helps Chan Ngoc Dang write out a program. Writing a program for computer science is very involved.

Kais Shirgul points out a mistake to Arel Sotelo on his computer screen for word processing. These documents must not have any mistakes in them.

Why did you take this certain business class?

I took this certain business class to learn more about mechanical drawing and learning the ways of doing so.
-Drafting, Charlie Aquino-

I feel I need to educate myself in the rapidly advancing world of computers.
-Computer science, Jonathan Escalada-

I took this class because I wanted to learn important business techniques and strategies for the future
-Marketing, Gavin Wright-

To learn all the different techniques of Business Marketing strategies.
-Marketing, Lynette Calilung-

Charlie Aquino, Ryan Bonoan, and Lalie Cariaso work hard on making mistake-free plan for drafting.

Substitute teacher and Elaine Kwong talk about ideas for marketing while Lynette Calilung listens in to pick up a few tips.

Alberto Garcia watches Charlie Aquino draw out a plan of a landscape during first period drafting.

Ann Du helps Mariam Sharifi understand the assignment given in computer science while Thomas Calimlim works quietly on his own project.

William Hickman gives advice to Anna Lukaszewicz on drawing her plans for drafting. Mr. Ford teaches drafting as well as wood shop.

Discovering Careers

Cutting, Crafting, Cooking & Caring

This year's ROP classes accomplished a great job working together as a team.

In Child Development classes Mrs. Stewart taught hands on experiences with toddlers and infants. Students learned more about children and the joy of creating projects, working as a group, and having fun.

Mr. Brandon's cooking classes of 1995 were very successful. Students learned to work as a team, they created many dishes which were served at nighttime and daytime events.

Agricultural Science taught by Mr. Carpenter allowed student the information they needed to know about the natures of living plants and animals which included a great nature of life.

Mr. Ford's woodshop classes learned the responsibility of working with dangerous machinery and gained woodworking experiences that will help them in life.

Over all, this years 1995 ROP classes seemed to have excellent spirit, which made 95 memorable and helped students out in the future.

Kim Sablan carefully inserts german statice into her wreath, one of the many techniques she learned in Mrs. Dea's floral class. Students made and sold many holiday arrangements.

Tacho Ordaz, Rita Saldana, and Jerry Stubblefield prepare sish-kabobs for sale. Mr. Brandon's classes often provided foot for sale during the year.

Leilani Lopez uses her woodworking skills to produce a perfectly cut piece of wood. Mr. Fords' woodshop class made many wood creations this year.

Shawna Skilling practices the art of bow-making in her Floral Art class. This class sold many arrangements to local organizations to raise money for the materials used.

Kim Wilson follows all the safety rules in wood shop while Eric Hill and Gaynell McNeal wait their turns at the jigsaw

Irene Magno, Lorina Teneza and Felix Santos eagerly watch Mr. Brandon show them the proper way to cut a steak

Senior Heather Bortisser shows her magnificent talent of wreathmaking. This wreath was one of the many fine creations made in Floral Art class this year

Senior Tamika Bennett rolls out of bed early each morning in order to sell breakfast items before school for Mr. Brandon's foods class

Sherry Seto and Kim Manibusan artfully design tall ferns to finish their small vase arrangements

Juniors Movin' On Up!!

Junior Class Fall Officers: MIMI CHOW-Secretary, IVY WAN-President, TINA LEE-Treasurer, JACK TRAN-Vice-President, CLAIRE RECLOSADO-Publicity

Moving up from lower class to upper class is a big step, but the juniors had a great handle on things this year. They took great pride in keeping close to the seniors in all areas. The junior class was only two points short of defeating the mighty, mighty seniors in the Homecoming/Spirit Week competition. Juniors definitely knew how to give their predecessors a run for their money, and boy did they know how to party!

Remember the Sweet November bash? That dance was sponsored by the junior class and proved to be the height of the school year. And what about the "Last Dance?" Now wasn't that memorable? Once again the juniors came through with another smashing affair!

This year's juniors were offered a world of educational opportunities. The Art and Humanities and Business Academies were an option. However, there were a few mandatory matters at hand. For starters, American Literature (English) was a required course for the juniors. U.S. History was also a "must," but the juniors didn't seem to mind. They sure knew how to take care of business.

All of this proved that unity and togetherness within the class of '96 will always shine through. So look out underclassmen ... the class of tomorrow is "MOVIN' ON UP"

ACCAL Stone Division Champions

*League Games

Encinal High football team had a winning season in '94 to go on and win a surprising league co-championship this year. They went to the playoffs for the first time in four years. The last time they won the league title was almost ten years ago

Jets opened the season with a win against San Leandro. In their next game they were blownout by Monterey 33 to 3. After that game Encinal went on to a roaring finish by winning their next eight straight game giving them a much deserved right of being called ACCAL Stone Division Champions

Our football team this year was a thrill to watch as their offense was at times unstoppable and the defense at times dominated the opponent's offense. This year's Encinal football team was lead by Senior quarterback Chris Campbell, Linemen of the year LaRue Anderson, running backs Kariem McFarlin and Chad Jones, and wide receivers Felix Santos and James Finley on the Offensive side of the ball. On the defensive side of the ball, the leaders were basically the same with the addition of Shamond Brooks Joey Tenorio, and Mike Tomas

Encinal High's football team experienced the thrill of beating Alameda High's football team for the third straight Island Bowl. Jets also beat Bishop O'Dowd for the first time since 1985 Encinal's football team also felt the agony of defeat when they lost to No. 1 ranked Northgate in the First Round of the playoffs.

For the first time in a long time Encinal had five Prep Players of the Week. They were LaRue Anderson, Chris Campbell, James Finley, Chad Jones, and Kariem McFarlin. This year's Football team made the students, teachers, coaches, and Principal proud of them and gave us pride in our School. Dr. Werner said "the team that the jets rose up to the level like he felt they would.

Ennis Washington glides down the field while Bishop O'Dowd player try to catch hit. Jets finally after ten years beat the Dragons.

Chris Campbell is looking down the field with his arm cocked and ready to throw as Northgate defender approaches Chad Jones prep of the week comes to block the Northgate's defensive end

Chris White tries to recover the "fumble" before the Alameda player while LaRue Anderson looks on. Jets went on to win and clinch the ACCAL Stone Division title.

Billy Brickey throws a pass to one of the receivers, for a chance to score some points for their team. Billy was one of the Sophomores on the J. V. football team that looked forward to being on Varsity next year.

Chris Presley and Louis Billetter block for Maurice Lyles.

Maurice Lyles takes the ball from Billy Brickey for a running play. Maurice took the ball through the opposing team and kept running for the chance to score a touchdown.

The J.V. football team started off with high hopes and dreams. The dreams may have faded away but they had a positive attitude throughout the season. Even though the coaches and players thought they didn't succeed as much as anticipated. They played hard and had a fun time.

Billy Brickey led the J.V. football team with his quarterback skills throughout the season. Sergio Lopez was another sophomore that held an outstanding record throughout the season. Also leading the J.V. team was Louis Billetter as line backer.

This year the Freshman football team came into this season with high hopes of winning the Freshman league and gaining spots in the ACCAL for being the best Freshmen in the Eastbay. This team showed pride and effort coming into this season. They practiced all throughout the summer in hopes they would win the league title. The jets had some stars on the Freshman team that will help J.V. team and Varsity team in the future. Dontell Benton and Reggie Smith rotated in as quarterbacks and Antwon Rollins showed great offense as well as defense. The Freshman team was led by first-year coaches Jimmy Gordon and Brian Shellenburger.

Chris Presley takes a time out on the sideline to chat with coach Grant

Dorian Jones runs the ball for Encinal Jets to try to score for the J. V. team.

Sergio Lopez blocks a player on the other team so Billy Brickey can run the ball. Marcus Miles and Lorzeno Albert also help in the play.

Mario Session and Frank Fisher tackle a Bishop O' Dowd player for no gain yards to help out the Jets

Ruzchiem Wise tries to go down the field to score for the Jets. He is looking forward to next years football.

The alumni game marked the close of the 1994 Encinal Water Polo season. On Sat., Nov. 12 the Jets took on one of their roughest rivals. The Jet's Ben McNeil had his hands full trying to guard alumnus Randy Romanoff.

The 1994 Varsity Jet Polo team: Coach-Jerry Cvecko, Adam Kreeft, Kevin Gordon, Sid Florendo, Ben McNeil, Chris Pivonka, Bayani Flores, Charles Scanlon, and Evan Richards.

Sid Florendo and Bayani Flores know that defense rules! These cousins, both sophomores, made the move from JV to Varsity in an outstanding fashion. They made their statement by earning Honorable Mention honors in the All-ACCAL awards.

November 11 marked the end of a water polo season that was at times frustrating, but all in all a successful year.

With Jet Polo veterans Ben McNeil and Chris Pivonka being the only players returning to their positions, the 1994 season was, from the beginning, a big question mark. The members of the team and coach Jerry Cvecko worked hard in a summer-long effort to familiarize the new players, including senior transfer students Adam Kreeft who moved into the goal, with the Jet Polo system.

After three months of summer polo and a productive pre-season, the Jets were ready for play. Their season opened up at the Novato Tournament were the Jet's new blood talleyed their first varsity minutes. Encinal ended up finishing a respectable seventh place in the tournament.

The goals for the 94 Jet Polo team were simple: play hard and hope to end up in the championship game at the league tournament. By the end of the season the Jets had met their goals. With a seven and one league record, their only loss coming against rival Alameda, they were the second seed at the ACCAL championship tournament. After two hard-fought games, that's how they ended up, finally relinquishing the championship to the Alameda squad that beat them in the championship game 12-8.

Although Jet Polo had lost over half their team, including four All-Leaguers to graduation, and despite the fact that Encinal was in the midst of a definitive building-season, the Jets proved that they had the heart and the drive to get as far as they did. Jet Polo proved once again that "JET PRIDE" conquers all.

Its MVP vs. MVP in the 1994 alumni game! Chris Pivonka this year's Jet Polo Most Valuable Player and unanimous All-Leaguer is guarded by Encinal's 1992 MVP Ciaron Ennis.

"Who should I pass to?" Adam Kreeft, a senior transfer student from Tracy High, had a spectacular season breaking a school record by finishing the season with 198 saves and receiving unanimous All-League honors for his work in the goal.

The "Big Splash" game vs. Alameda lived up to its bill this year. The Jets worked especially hard on defense as is so eloquently demonstrated by Kevin Gordon, Sid Florendo, and All-ACCAL hole guard Evan Richards.

Molly Plaman and Missy Berry go up to block a shot which Molly succeeded in rejecting.

Varsity Volleyball Team: top-Missy Berry, Mellisa Milam, Coach Orin Hasal, Molly Plaman; middle-Francis Onia, Jessica Castillo, Clare Reclosado; bottom-Judalon Winstead, Rizalyn Esteban, Kim Sablan

J.V. Volleyball Team: top-Christine Murray, Cynthia Richards, Christine Jellesed, and Kay Chow; bottom: Chrissy Pinole, Rachel Knight, Jessica Castillo, Maha Al-jumaie, Christine Banko, Cynthia Richards, Shawna f.

The J.V team comes together during a timeout to try to pull out the win.

This year The Girls Volleyball Team got off to a great 3-1 record with wins over Salesian, Holy Names, and JFK. In between they played a tough 5 game match against Alameda which saw the game tied up at 2 games apiece, but the Alameda squad came away with the victory. After that, the team stumbled through the '94 campaign with an overall record of 5-7. Although this was a season they would like to forget, this was also a season that saw the possibility of playoffs in the future. In the middle of the season the varsity team went up to Mendocino County were they were in a tournament called the mendino classic. The varsity team although very competitive came away with a 1-3 record. During the tournament the team was led by the strong play of seniors Judalon Winstead, Rizalyn Estaban, and Kim Sablan.

The 1995 Encinal Jets were astonishing this year. They made it to their first North Coach division championship since 1979. Each team practiced long and hard to try and beat all their opponents. Coach Mark Wainwright encouraged his boys more than ever to be the best they could be and try the hardest they could. Never was there a time when the Coach gave upon his team, nor the team gave up on the coach. Every game was a test for the boys. Each athlete had to prove that he were as good as he said. Each player a thinking game. Sweat and energy swamped the courts each and every game. Congratulations to the Varsity Boys Basketball team for all their effort that was made. Good Luck next year.

The Freshman team for 1994-95 had a poor season. Their record was 1-9. The only team that they beat was Bishop O'Dowd. They only won by 3 points. Jose Cruz and Alastair Onia, were the Starting point guards. They worked very hard at practice and for the games. Leading scorers were Va'a Tuleiso, Shameus Desa, and Vern Burell. They're all power forwards. James Eason, our three-point guard, was the best we had. But the whole team worked together. Those 9 games that we lost, we only lost by a few points. The only team that we wanted to beat badly were the Hornets from Alameda High. They're our archrivals. We lost to them, However, our J.V. team won.

The J.V. team had a successful season because they practiced hard and worked as a team. There were no ball hoggers. Each person the court performed at 100%. Their coach Chuck Fehley wanted to win. He said, "I'm so proud of my team." He was filled with joy that they beat their archrivals, the Hornets. Curtis Johnson and Clayton Guyton were scoring their season average. Everyone on the team also did well. Coach Fehley said that he would be coaching Varsity football team next year.

This year's Lady Jets had a fun year. Even though they didn't achieve all the way they never gave up. This year's J.V. team started off with a all new squad of girls. They worked hard and hustled throughout the whole basketball season. All the girls who played J.V. basketball was their first year playing basketball. They were coached under George Landury which was his first of coaching at Encinal. Varsity basketball made it a competitive year. Even though they lost a chance to go to the playoffs by four points when they were defeated by St. Joseph. This was more of a chemistry year for the Lady Jets who only had 1 senior to stay on the team for the whole year. This team was young and had 3 freshmen. The Lady Jets were hurt by the losses of Lastisha Burnette and Camella Millet-Lau which were out for the rest of the season due injuries. They were 2 of the Jets starters. La Toya Lee and Mellissa Milam was named Honorable Mention for the ACCAL All League. So the Varsity Jets had a respectable season. The Lady Jets were coached under Mr. Dave Johns who announced that this season was his last season for coaching basketball. Mr. Johns will be missed by all of the Lady Jets. Good luck to those High Flying Lady Jets next year.

The season began with high hopes for the Jets; predicted to place as high as first in the AC-CAL by some, Encinal's soccer team started their season with confidence and pride--then came the rains.

Over fifty percent of the Jet's regular and pre-season, games were either canceled or rescheduled due to rain this season. As if that weren't enough, most of the games that were played were done so on wet, muddy, slick, and generally treacherous fields.

Just as the season seemed ready to be canceled, the rains stopped and the task of trying to get the team back on track began. Despite All-League efforts by seniors Fernando Hernani and Mansoor Rahmani and overall dominant play by the junior duo of Cesar Lopez and Geraldo Flores as well as a host of others who played exceptionally well, the Jets could do everything but win: "There were times when we would almost completely out-class the opposition, on offense and on defense, control the ball most of the game and look good doing it, and still find a way to loose by a goal," said one senior on the team.

Overall, it turned out to be a frustrating season for a talented group of soccer players who deserved better than to be "rained out."

Mansoor Rahmani belts a ball clear of his end of the field. This senior became a three-time all-leaguer this year.

Ronny "El Caballo" Sono, a senior who played since his freshman year gallops toward the opponent's goal.

Who's got the ball? Jets defensemen won't this O'Dowd player near the net.

Sophomore Goalie Erick Klaus inherited the starting position for the Jets this year and proved to be up to the task.

It's powerful defense like that displayed by acrobatic junior Obie Azami that wins games.

Charlene Michael, the lone four-year member of the Encinal girls soccer team was as spectacular in her senior year as she was in her previous three, receiving her third consecutive All-League selection.

Cathy dodges the defense en route to the opponents goal. Ms. Dodge, in her second year as a Jet was a dominant force and one of the most critical parts of the team's chemistry.

Maile Campbell, Alicia Miranda and Carrie Powell dribble to the goal for another score.

Once again the Encinal High School girls soccer team's record became the victim of a building season. With more than three-quarters of the team having no or only one year's experience the job of teaching the new group of girls was the responsibility of new coach Alex Brewer. When asked early in the season about the team he was skeptical but never the less the process began.

Despite some frustrating losses early in the season the Jets did not loose heart. Behind the ever-solid play of star forward and three-time All-Leaguer and senior Charlene Michael and strong shows from senior Cathy Dodge and junior Samara Dictor the team, which began developing a strong chemistry late in the season, started to come together and put up some quality soccer.

"It was like starting all over from the beginning," said Dodge. Hopefully the team will be able to build on what they learned this year so that next season isn't another beginning.

Despite painful knee injuries junior Carrie Powell played well and became a leader on the Jets defensive line this season

Seniors, Stephanie Stelter and Charlene Michael catch their breath as they set up another scoring drive.

Samara Dictor, a junior transfer student from Beacon School in Oakland, immediately became one of Encinal's biggest offensive threats. Samara has many years of soccer experience which helped the experience deficient Jets.

Recently Encinal High has fielded a baseball team that has made it to the league playoffs many times. But this year the team hopes to go to the next level: The NCS Championship. With talented players like Kyle Collins, Kariem McFarlin, Roland Richards, Jimmy Rollins, Slater Viers, and Larry Ybarra returning from last year's varsity team, and the addition of players like Frank Awayon, Dustin Canalin, Shomarie Beverly, and Hugo Guerrero the Jets will be a team to look out for in the post season.

On the baseball field the team is off to a fast start with a record of two wins and two ties. The team has the right amount of experience and youth that should easily win the AACCL title. With ten underclass men are on the team the team should be force in the Eastbay for many years to come.

Many EHS students participated in the sports program and joined up with the team that was right for them. However, softball seemed to be a great choice for anybody who was up for a challenge. Who could resist that much fun?

Softball coach, Mr. David Johns, did a wonderful job putting together a winning team. Each player on the team was full of JET PRIDE and had both the ability and the determination to be a winning team. Mr. Johns' girls definitely proved their worth this season in each game they played. It wasn't whether they won or lost, these girls surely brought back the word "pride" into JET PRIDE.

Holding their heads high in their blue and white jersies, our girls always take the field with high spirits and light hearts. Their athletic abilities soared farther than the mighty jet and yet they still concentrated on having fun on the field rather than being a winning team. Adoring fans cheered with joy as their favorite players scattered to their positions and prepared themselves for the game. Our Lady Jets glared with intimidating eyes at their opponents warming up alongside them. The opponents stared back with fear and trepidation as a cowardly sweat rolls down their foreheads. Squinting in the sunlight gleaming through the clouds, our lovely ladies took quick control of the game. The game continued the same way throughout the remaining time and when it all comes to an end ... Lady Jets walked away victorious. The crowd had gone bolistic and everyone felt proud of our girls. Coach Johns gives the girls his approval and proceeded to speak of victory, pride, and "Next Time!"

Now what do you think of our Lady Jets? I hope the above scenario changed any negative feelings you might have had for the team. I would sure be proud to call myself a Jet after watching these girls in action. Their high spirits and skillful abilities have definitely put our girls ... In A League Of Their Own.

The 1995 swimming season began in rather gloomy fashion; with the first several meets being held during torrential downpours, the Jet swimmers at least had plenty of water to swim in. Nevertheless the Encinal High team, with new coach, Terry Flock, plunged into the season headlong, depleted team and all.

The Jets fielded a much smaller team this year than in the past. Due to a large graduating class last season, this year's Boys Varsity team consisted of about six swimmers with Sophomore standout Bayani Flores and senior Chris Pivonka hoping to relive their North Coast Section Championship qualifying of last season.

The Girls Varsity team wasn't much better off having only about eight swimmers sign up and often fielding less than that. League diving champion Jessica Burtenshaw will attempt to once again secure her position as one of the top divers in the section.

The varsity team, along with a Junior Varsity squad, plan to take on their thirteen meet schedule with determination hard training. Good luck to the Jet Swimmers!

This year tennis was in the heart of Encinal as girls newest coach Nanette Stewart started the rebuilding period of the younger girls team. New comers like Alyce Chow, along with other freshmen came out and brought new enthusiasm to the sport. And older seniors like Florence Young, Aubrey Lau and Adrienne Ragasa and her partner Christina Deang brought out their skills for their last run at the title.

And on the other side of the court coach Kevin Beal brought back a more older and more experienced boys team to the courts. The usual faithfuls came back for mens singles play: Jack Tran, Jonathan Escalada, Daniel Millet-Lau, Tylor Christopher, Ryan Haslam and Raymond Chan. And new future hopefuls such as Scott Wong, Ryan Bonoan, Joe Milo and Gil Abar and his doubles partner Michael Chung should add some youth and intensity to Jets tennis. This season brought out all the talents that coach Beal and coach Stewart taught all their players. Fundamental such as ground strokes, volleys and basics tennis ethics like composure on and off the courts.

On both ends of the courts girls and boys team had up and down moments through the season. Both young teams look forward to next season for hopes of championships.

This year the Track team had so much talent that they could qualify for many medal meets. There were a lot of stars competing in the meets such as our own Andre Rutledge, Tanisha Nious, LaRue Anderson, Mike Thomas, Henry Johnson and Shafiq Naweed. Andre and Tanisha were strong nominees for all league and possibly even all-state. Mike and LaRue anchored the strong events such as Discus and Shot-put. Cross country stars Shafiq and Jaweed Naweed rounded out the field in the long distance running track events. Juniors Chad Reed and Adam Beverly also competed in the jumping events. Coaches Don Grant and Alvin Piccatae had a very experienced relay team with seniors Andre, Tanisha, Felix Santos, Henry, juniors Chad, Maile Campbell, and up and coming stars Cynthia Richard and Patrick Anderson. This year's team was very strong in all events and qualified runners for state events and all-league candidacy in the future.

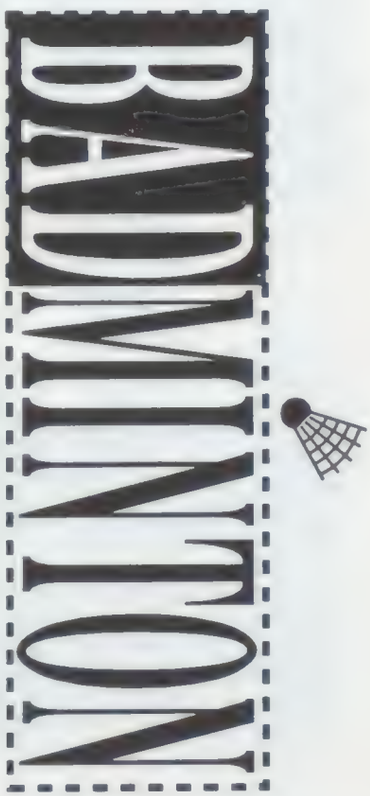
Badminton is back and hasn't gotten any smaller. Still badminton up-holds the tradition of having an enormous amount of players on any team here at Encinal. Newly coached this year by Mr. Barry Savin. Coach Savin caught on quickly by making sure that his players keep in shape and keep practicing on their game like any other sports here at Encinal. Seeing new faces and some older ones and getting to know the new coach was back breaking for everyone. To some of the more experienced player it was tough. But through bad times and also good ones the team kept growing stronger with every match they played.

To sum the season up in these few words makes it all more difficult for the sport. In any game like badminton the work ethics and the mentality is still very much there. Most often you could find a lot of courage in all the badminton players.

The more experienced double team of Veronica Lieuw and Tina Lee finish off the point with an over head smash.

Aubrey Lau stretches for the dink shot as she has to show us her versatility of getting to the bird more than one way.

Kais Shirgul shows us how to miss a smash and play it off to the camera as if it a winner.



Mr. Phelps, Chad Paripatipan, Art Rodriguez, Mark Gunn, Johnny Bowman all pose with golf clubs.

Coach Rick Lind and Frank Fisher get ready for the put on the seventh green while the others watch closely.

Senior Jhonno Bruce drives it down the far lane.

Golf Team-Art Rodriguez, Frank Fisher, Doug Mahoney, Jessie Lewis and Rick Lind (coach) watch the put go in.

Putting Around

Jessie Lewis prepares for a second shot down the middle fairway.

Golf season is kicking off in 95' with a new team. With some tuff matches but I think they have a good season. Golf is a relaxing game where you use different clubs to get the ball in the hole. Golf is one of the most played sports in the world. This going to be the best season for Encinal high school.

Chad Paripatipan, Art Rodriguez, Mark Gunn and Mr. Phelps practice their tee shots.

Jessie Lewis gets ready to travel to Alameda Municipal Gold Course.

Art Rodriguez tees off for another round of 18 holes.

Go Big Blue!

Go Big Blue was one of this year's cheers that the spirit squads used to rouse school spirit and the crowd. Encinal cheerleaders worked very well this year. They worked through out the summer and even practiced in the 1994 Alameda Fourth of July parade. They had a lot of fund-raisers and food sales to raise money for their uniforms and to help each other out. Football and Basketball changed cheerleaders from the fall into the winter. This gives other girls a chance to participate in other activities. This year's hard working goes to Ms. Wood and Mrs. Moore who took over this year's varsity spirit squad. Thanks goes out to all the girls who participated in cheerleading during 1994-95 season.

Coming Back For Round Two!

Barry Ford and Dana Natac, who are they? Just the Sophomore Prince and Princess of Homecoming. The game and dance were held on October 8, 1994. Encinal won the game against Salesian 33 to 7. The DJ's screen was more hype than the DJ himself. Agnus Chu, one of the class officers said that the Sophomores should have gotten second place instead of the Juniors because we had more spirit.

One of the events that the Sophomores sponsored was the Winterball which was held in January. The pictures were done by Picture This, LTD and everybody had a good time.

The Class of '97 also had a choice of different elective classes such as leadership, Wood Shop, typing, Yearbook, Current Life and Foreign Language.

The class officers were: Amy Mak-President; Sabrina Chin-Vice President; Agnus Chu-Treasurer; Vanessa Quinto-Secretary; Kristine Armstrong-Publicity. They were somewhat good throughout the year, the majority of the sophomore class said. The goals of the Sophomore class officers are to get more Sophomores involved in activities. Agnus Chu also said that the classes are harder this year compared to last year because of Chemistry, Algebra 2 and Spanish 3.

The Class of '97 had a good year and everybody looked forward for next year, to becoming Juniors, going to the Prom, getting better grades and to heading on to round three.

The Sophomore Class Officers of the '94-'95 school year were: Agnus Chu (treasurer), Sabrina Chin (vice president), Vanessa Quinto (secretary), Amy Mak (president), and Cristine Armstrong (publicity). They stopped all their busy work of planning the winterball to pose for a picture next to the Jet.

What did you think of Homecoming? (Theme, Hall, color, and prince and princess.)

I think the Homecoming was a huge success. The themes were good too, but I especially enjoyed the hallways. A lot of students really work hard on the hallways and took the time to do it.

by Sabrina Chin

How are the families different this year from last year?

I think the families are more closer to one another and are giving more respect to their teachers and classmates. There is more effort being put out by students to get better grades in classes.

by Arlene Fuertes

Are this year's electives better this year?

Yes, I think this year's electives are good especially since I have three and I am only a sophomore. There is more to choose from so you can expand and put year electives to match a class or area of study you would like to learn.

by Jaime Wills

Are classes harder or easier this year?

The creation of any large publication, such as the Encinal Horizon, is an extremely rigorous and complicated project; one which requires discipline and responsibility as well as ambition and skill-it's not for the lazy or lakidazical-but once you've succeeded and accomplished your goals and made your deadlines-it's the greatest feeling in the world.

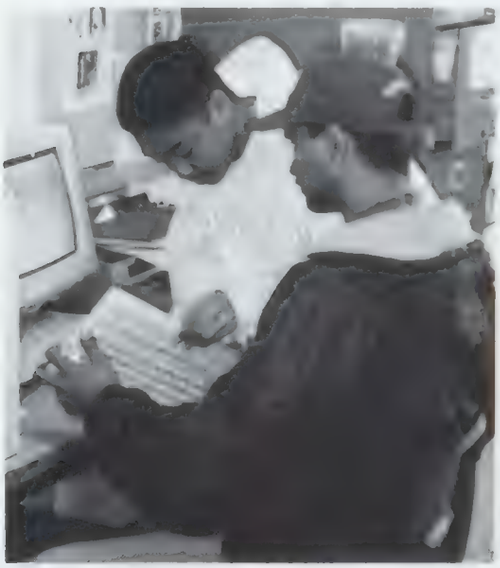
Producing Memories

In year book class the students bond together through hard times and through good times. Ben Mc Neil and Jamie Holgerson are the two editors; they both work really hard to make sure that everyone meets all their deadlines in on time.

Jack Tran is an outstanding junior editor. So are our other year book staff editors: LaRue Anderson the loud but funny entertainer of the class, Heather Bortisser the hard working complainer, Ryan Bonoan the always working hard assistant junior editor, the always William Wong the "Freshman of all freshman", Khalida Hamid the acts-like-she's-doing-some-thing senior, and we can never forget the super heavily supervision of Ms. Jean Wood. We also can't forget the rest of the year book staff who helped put this outstanding year book together. Without the seniors of the class of "95", we wouldn't be able to make this year book the best one ever.



Inderjit Grewal and Ryan Bonoan working together as a team to get their pages done on time.

Christian Serna works hard to meet another grueling deadline, typing in body copy and captions.

The year book class poses for a family picture. After many hours of hard work the class has a special bond with each other.

ACTIVITIES

Jets Do It Again

Making It Three In A Row

In our hearts we all knew that the varsity Jets would overcome all. The Jets made the perfect end to a wonderful season by putting the Hornets to shame. The Jets beat the Hornets 26-7 in the 40th Annual Island Bowl. Quarterback Chris Campbell was named MVP of the year although everyone played a spectacular game. Campbell threw two touchdown passes to James Finley, and Ennis Washington ran almost 60 yards to his first touchdown of the season. Our running back Kareem McFarlin was taken out of the game in the first half due to a dislocated shoulder, but even though we were down a good player it didn't make any difference. Maybe it made the team work harder, who knows. Runningback Chad Jones rushed for a season high 150 yards and also scored a touchdown.

This victory was the key that allowed them into the playoffs, and was also the first win on Burrell field in over 3 years. To say that this was a good season for the varsity Jets would be an understatement. This was one of the best seasons the Jets have ever had. We are all really proud of the job they have done.

Running back Chris White chases after a fumbled ball while the rest of Alameda's and Encinal's teams look on in anticipation.

Quarterback and Senior Chris Campbell gets ready to hand the ball off to one of his team mates, but it seems that there is no one to hand off to.

Crowd members Acacia Tally, Kim Harmon, Tara DeLong, and Susan Combs cheer on their winning team. Many students show their school spirit by painting their faces and bodies their school colors, blue and white.

Center Wesley New and an Alameda High player compare their aches and pains after diving for a fumbled ball. Unfortunately the Alameda team ended up with the ball.

Ennis Washington, #23, crushes through Alameda's defense to complete the first down.

Shamond Brooks and an Alameda players fight for the fumble; Chris Campbell runs to the rescue to see if he can help his teammate, but he realizes that Shamond has it under control.

The world reknown pom-pon man rooted for Encinal's team throughout the game. Many people said he happily became our mascot for the 94-95 season. The audience went through a lot to keep our pom-pon man. Alameda's crowd tried to steal him from us, but our man was loyal and returned to our side.

Strong safety Chris Campbell and corner back Shamond Brooks fight their way through the Alameda players to recover a fumble

It's a bird, it's a plane, no it's Jets wide receiver James Finley. This amazing catch was just one of the reasons the Jets prevailed at the game

Let's Do Lunch

Everyone looks forward to lunch time. And why wouldn't they? Lunch time at EHS is full of food, fun, and variety. A variety of people, activities, and food choice. Don't you remember a time when you came to class and did the same old boring thing that you did the every other day before? You sit for what feels like an eternity and all the sudden ... Brring! Saved by the bell!! I'll bet you were thinking of how glad you were that it was lunch time. Laughter fills the halls and the delectable aromas of many foods tempt your nostrils. I'll bet you remember that, don't you?

During Unity Week there were a variety of activities. Monday, the first day of Unity Week, was Afghanistan Day; students wore black, red, and green and played soccer. It was the beginning of a great week of culture and most importantly food. Tuesday was American Day. Students wore red, white, and blue. The game that many dared to play was flag football. Wednesday, Asian Day, students wore red, yellow, and blue and played the always loved volleyball. Thursday was Chicano/ Latino Day and students strutted their stuff in red, white, and green and took swings at a pinata. Last but not least was Friday, African/American Day. Students dressed in red, yellow, green, and black and everyone joined in for freestyle dancing. This was one of the most unforgettable multi-cultural experiences to ever occur at EHS.

During lunch time at EHS you could find people on the black top, on the lawn, in the gym, in the hallways, and even on the corners of the roads surrounding Encinal. Many students traveled afar to eat fast food when lunch time came, but most students hung around for "SCHOOL FOOD!!" AAAAAAAUGH!!!! Actually, this year's menu wasn't half bad. I think we all owe the cafeteria ladies a big "thank you."

Like every other good thing, unfortunately, there is an end. All the lunch time fun winds down to a whisper as hesitant students swallow the last of their lunch and laugh for the last time with their friends. They all trudge slowly to their classrooms and wave their good-byes as the final bell rings. Waiting for tomorrow when lunch time shall come again.

Assembly Time

Homecoming, Dancing And Performing

This year at Encinal we had a variety of assemblies. Our first assembly was the football homecoming assembly, competition between classes was stiff but the senior class of 95 proved to be the most spirited.

Our next two assemblies planned fell through after everybody filled the gym but the African dance group failed to show up. The only thing about this was that we had a longer lunch. The next assembly was a pep rally for the athletes. This assembly was cool, if you were an athlete, because only athletes were allowed to attend.

Some students felt this was discriminatory and unfair. They did not feel athletes should get special attention. Another assembly held in February was the Martin Luther King assembly. This assembly was an educational one for all of us.

Hummin'-Comin' At Cha

This years 1995's upper and lower classmen came to boogie down in every form of style and fashion, from formal to casual wear. Our school showed their support to raise money for our dances by participating in other Encinal High School events.

To get down in the 95 means to get sounds in 1995. Special thanks to these following D.J.'s for their support to our Encinal High School dances. Sounds of Music Vision provided great music for our Homecoming dance given by Leadership class. Lotta Sounds DJed the Sophomore's Winterball of 1995, "I'll Remember You." And last but not least, Aimed 2 Please provided funky sounds for the Senior class dance of the year Sadie Hawkins.

Special thanks also to all hard working sponsors in these school dance events. Leadership's Homecoming, Sophomore's Winterball, Senior's Sadie Hawkins and Junior's Jr. and Sr. Prom of 95. Thanks to JROTC Battalion for sponsoring a dance for which they haven't participated in for a long time.

A school dance can appear great if you enjoy it to your fullest abilities. You may sometimes ask yourself if school dances are worth the money and time? But if your in the mood to boogie down to great sounds of hip hop and a great variety of music, you came to the right place.

Maybelle and her friend enjoy the Winter Ball. The Winter Ball was one of the dances most attended this year.

Kim Harmon and Shawn Moreland get ready to dance as Christine Armstrong look at Chris Campbell and Tara DeLong dance.

Maria Florez and Ryan Garcia chill in the back while gazing at the other people dance.

Hong Joo, Barry Ford and Joey Tenorio throw their hands in the air as Hugo Vallera flexes for the camera.

Chad Jones and Jovy Burgos are seen walking down the aisle. Chad and Jovy were the 1995 Homecoming King and Queen.

What do you think of the Homecoming Dance?

"I thought it was entertaining because most people were dancin"-James Kimble

What did you think of the Winter Ball?

Dramatic Acts

Everyone's Acting A Role!

The 1994-1995 year for the drama program was very successful. In the fall fourteen students combined with Mr. Moorhead to produce a highly entertaining "Dracula". The eight students onstage were magnificent and were ably aided by the six students working backstage. The special effects for this show were particularly good, with bats flying, mirror shattering, and wall disappearing right before the audience. Seniors Acacia Tally, Peter Major, Beki Duarte and Tacho Ordaz were joined by Angela Acosta, Wahid Rahimi, Earl Rivard and Katheryn Gilbert to shock, scare and to mystify.

The spring featured an evening of one-act plays performed by the advanced drama class, including an original play written by Beki Duarte.

The spring musical was "West Side Story". The aisles of the cafeteria became the streets of New York City. Cast members danced, ran, and wandered through the audience, at times bringing the action of the play within the inches of the people in the seats. The wonderful score was sung marvelously by Angela Acosta, Tacho Ordaz, Shawn Moreland, Jeremy Quinones, and thirty other students including seniors Darwin Sayo, Peter Major, Ramon Vasquez, Ronald LeGaux, Les Fernandez, Anthony Chu, Ryan Haslam and Cindy Gorden. The energy put forth by the cast was incredible, and it was one of the most popular productions in the recent years.

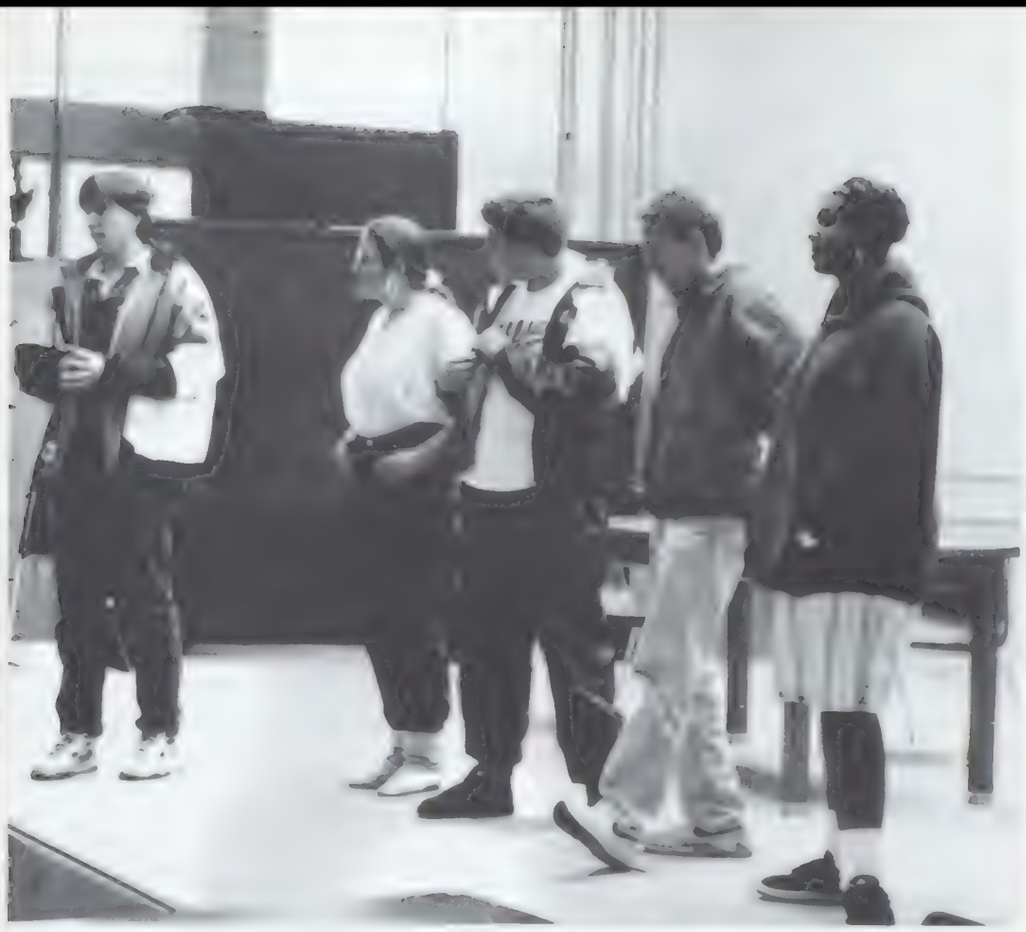
There were four freshman drama classes that had one-hundred and eleven students in the Freshman Drama Family. They acted out plays, wrote scripts and performed. Their different types of drama exercises that helped with communication like the game killer where everybody sat in a circle and put their heads down. They picked a person which was the killer who "killed" people by winking at them. The others had to guess who the killer was.

Miesha Singleton, Margo Lewis, Tereasa Chavez, Richard Porter, Larashia Williams, and Maria Flores act as if they are mourning over their classmates Judy Jeung and Joy Gemer who just died.

Jennifer Dworak, Stephanie Stelter, and Ronald LeGaux try out for "Dracula". "Dracula" was Encinal High School's fall play.

Cindy Lee, Kimberly Yan and Hanalei Drapiza give their Christmas lists to Alan Duque who played Santa. This was the Drama Family's first pageant which took place during the first semester.

Teresa Chavez, Rebekah Duarte, Acacia Tally, Lisa Gurman, Wahid Rahmani, and Stephanie Reed anticipating the dramatic moment. This is the fourth period advance drama class.



All heads turn when Earl Rivard speaks. His classmates Angela Pryor, Jason Appezato, Peter Major, and Najja Frasure play attention.

Seniors Camillia Miller-Lau on bended knee asks Stephanie Stelter for her hand in marriage.

Tacho Ordaz and Angela Acosta practice a kissing scene for "West Side Story". They play the main roles of Tony and Maria.

Peter Major as Harker, Acacia Tally as the doctor, and Earl Rivard III as Dracula acted out a scene from "Dracula". "Dracula" was a hit in the fall.

Student Organizations

Uniting Together

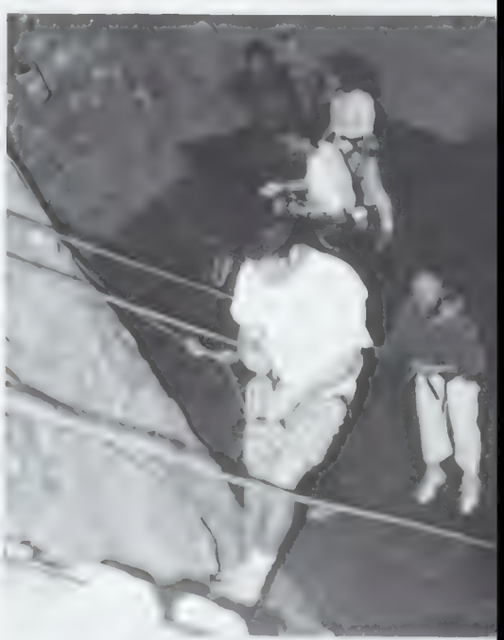
Clubs, clubs, clubs, and more clubs. Every school has its own clubs, but at Encinal clubs are a little bit different. EHS has different kinds of clubs with different kinds of people.

This year there was a new club introduced to Encinal, the Spanish Club. The Spanish Club was sponsored by Ms. Sanchez this year. The Club offered help to students with their Spanish homework.

Of course there were the usual clubs: Key Club, Drama Club, DECA, Art Club, Outing Club, California Scholarship Federation, and Asian Club. Another new club this year was the Voices of Gospel that was sponsored by Marva Lyons.

Clubs at Encinal usually sell food, candy, and grams to make money for clubs. Most students love food sales at Encinal. Not only do clubs get students away from the usual school food, but they also give students a chance to send special gifts to their friends.

Next year, students looked forward to joining traditional clubs, exciting clubs, and new clubs that will unite students throughout the school.



John Mak helps sell food with his fellow Club Mates. Encinal has two weeks out of the year for free sales week. This was one of them. Many Clubs sold chow mein and different kinds of Asian Food

Kay Chow, Ivy Wan, and Claire Reclosado scrape up the last of the chow mein for food sales. Everyday that week there was a sell out of chow mein

Kevin Gordon tries to figure out what to do next to get down the repel wall. Other members of the Outing Club also went repelling. Outing Club went on several field trips that included mountain bike riding and going to beaches.

Outing Club went for a little hike at Point Reyes, California. There they observed mountains, the water and even some animals.

Chow Mein was a big seller for many clubs especially Spanish Club. Other clubs sold Chow Mein and did very well.

Iris Lee makes a point to certain Key Clubs members about Key Clubs activities.

What makes Encinal clubs different than any other school clubs?

"Our clubs have spirit."

-Ryan Bonoan-

"We have good people in our clubs."

-Jack Tran-

"We have a more ethnic variety in our clubs. They are more open to people even though they seem to be open to certain people. Ethnic lines are a void at EHS clubs."

-Shirene Bell-

"People are lazy and they don't go to meetings, like me!"

-Chris Serna-

"People in this school are more dedicated to their clubs and have a lot of school spirit."

-Oscar Lara-

"Clubs here don't have that much money but we are united."

-Frank Garcia-

Jonathan Escalada shows Tony Tran the significance of the Key Club Banner. And it's importance to the club.

Food sales was the main thing that raised money for clubs this year.

One of the many activities Key Club was involved in was picking up garbage for community service.

Leadership Donates

Giving Blood And Food

Each year Encinal participates in annual Blood and Food drives. These events save lives and provide much needed supplies for the needy. Both of these events were coordinated by students in the leadership class.

The blood drive was held on October 20th in room 200. A person had to be at least 17 years old and weigh 110 pounds to donate blood. After filling out a long questionnaire the donator then had a confidential interview with a nurse, who answered all of his questions about giving blood. Working together Michelle Pangilinan and Sally Sanchez made the 1994 Blood Drive a successful one.

The food drive was held at Encinal from November 28 to December 9th. To gather up many donated goods the classes held a competition to see which class could gather the most amount of cans. The Freshmen class come in first, the Seniors a close second, the Sophomores third and the Juniors a disappointing fourth. For their work the Freshmen got $75 for their class fund. All the cans from the drive went to the Alameda-Contra Costa County Food Bank.

The Leadership class met every day during fourth period. With the supervision of Ms. Kingtons the class organized many events. Lunch time allies, organizing assemblies, putting up and making posters were just of the few responsibilities that the students had.

Ann Torio tries to get back some nutrients after giving blood by drinking some juice

Junior Ennis Washington does his part during the annual food drive to help the needy.

While Senior Jessica Burtenshaw donates a canned good, Dustin Canalin and Anthony Chu count the number of cans in the barrel in the office.

Senior Ryan Haslam takes a nap after donating a pint of blood to help a good cause.

Michelle Pangilinan looks around to see where the nurse went, who was suppose to check her blood pressure.

Charles Scanlon fills out the very long questionnaire before he gives blood

Senior Stephanie May gets her temperature checked before she donates blood

Making History!

Freshmen Prove Their Worth

Welcome freshmen! Freshmen certainly had a hectic time adjusting to their new home at Encinal High School. As classes grew longer, the days did too! "The freshman class is probably one of the brightest I've seen so far. They're willing to learn, and have the ability to do anything they want," said one teacher about the freshman class of 1995.

It's amazing when you can walk around the campus and see so many new faces having a good time and learning to communicate with each other as well as Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. The freshman class of '94, the largest class this year, had shown much potential all year long. They sang louder for choir class, built better for wood shop, and actually were able to put up with certain irritable teachers. Everywhere you looked, you see freshman doing their best. And if it's not their best, they've three more years to practice.

High school was the start of a whole new world for freshman. Classes seemed longer, friends didn't call as often, and by the time your favorite T.V. show was on, you'd fallen asleep doing last night's homework, and as you started to make new friends, and remembered old ones, life seemed a little better. (Although all this reminiscing won't exactly get you an A on your history exam.) To many freshman, high school was just another four years to make fun of your English teacher when she left the room to flirt with the downstairs math sub. Paper airplanes and half-cooked hamburgers flew through the air at lunchtime, but yet amongst all this rif and raff, there's a higher learning amidst.

Amongst all the reading, writing, and perhaps some arithmetic, freshmen are learning that for the next three years of their life, school at Encinal High School will be much cooler.

Alastair Onia and Apple Pineda enjoy a moment together at Homecoming. They were freshman prince and princess Invisaging sundry souvenirs of Encinal High School is either scrumptious or galling. Howbeit, knowing that I won't attend it for the following year is most hurtful. Lodged in my mind are those sublimable teachers who ve devoted their time and energy to educating children and hence giving them the universe.

There are places I remember All my life, Though some have changed, Some forever, not for the better, Some have gone and some remain. All these places had their moments With lovers and friends I still can recall. Some are dead and some are living. In my life I've loved them all...

For All The Memories

KIM HARMON:

We watched you grow into a beautiful young woman. We love you more than words can say. You've made us proud. Just remember you will always be our little girl. We wish only the best for you now and always.

Love, YOUR family

Christopher Pivonka:

Hurray! You did it!

We are so proud.

From: Mom and Dad

RYAN HASLAM:

Congratulations! We are proud of your success in high school and especially your achievements as drum major. You have expounded the idea, "You can do or be anything if you practice enough!"

Love, Mom and Dad

Peter Major:

Congratulations on a job well done. We are more than just a little proud of you. You're a great kid: always have been, always will be. Remember:

To thine own self be true.

We love you,
Mom, Nicole & Cindy

POO:

Aloha and Mahalo

Love, Ashes

Joey Tenorio:

We are so proud of you. You made it. We hope the future holds great things.

Love,
Mom & Dad

Hula Time! Five talented hula dancers perform in front of Encinal High School and Student body.

Filipino s cheer on their nationality during Unity Week assembly.

Alicia Miranda and Alison Blickle dance Tahitian with bamboo sticks. It's said that they tell stories when they dance.

The crowd goes wild during a show at the Unity assembly. Most appreciated all the culture.

The Philipinos do a dance with sticks to show their Philipino spirit and traditional culture.

The female Chinese acrobat balances 8 bowls on her head while riding on a unicycle. She kicked 1 bowl, then 2, to as many as 5 at one time.

The band of Rocking Roll rocks Encinal's gym. Evan Richards on guitar, Earl Rivard on drums and Jim Holtsmith on bass guitar

The Philipinos dance during Unity Week's assembly to show their school spirit and to show off their national traditions

To all the local businesses that supported our class & made this book possible by buying our ads.

The 1995 Encinal High Horizon (Volume 40) is a 192 page book created by the talents of 23 students. The cover is a custom litho using Royal Blue and Metallic Silver coloring. Our cover was designed by the talented Phuoc Khong for the theme of Breaking Through.

Jostens Publishing is the company that prints our yearbooks. The company is located in Visalia, California. Gayle Leksan is our representative who helps us with the designing of our layouts, and making our deadlines. Jim Fashinelle is our photograph representative who takes care of the Senior portraits and all major dances and sports.
